

AUTHOR PROFILES

Luye Mou is Assistant Professor at Zhejiang University Guanghua Law School, China. He was awarded a Ph.D. from Peking University, and LL.M. & LL.B. from China University of Political Science and Law. He also got an LL.M. from Harvard University. Dr. Mou was a Fulbright visiting scholar at the East Asian Legal Studies program of Harvard Law School.

His research interests focus on the criminal law and procedure, evidence, capital punishment, legal profession, and comparative criminal justice. Professor Mou has co-authored three books and published more than twenty articles. He can be contacted at luye_mou@zju.edu.cn

Pinghua Sun is Professor at China University of Political Science and Law. He earned a Ph.D. in Human Rights Law at CUPL, M.A. at the University of Warwick. He was a visiting scholar at the University of Exeter and has been invited to deliver speeches at Oxford University (UK), Purdue University (US), the University of Bologna (Italy), Albany Law School (US), and dozens of Chinese universities. Dr. Sun has completed three projects of the National Social Science Fund, including two of China Academic Translation Projects. Sponsored by “Chinese Fund for Humanities and Social Science,” he published two English monographs at Springer: 1) HUMAN RIGHTS PROTECTION SYSTEM IN CHINA and 2) HISTORIC ACHIEVEMENT OF A COMMON STANDARD: PENGCHUN CHANG AND THE UNIVERSAL DECLARATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS. His Chinese works include: 1) The Study of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, (winner of the second prize of the 13th Excellent Achievement of Philosophy and Social Sciences of Beijing Municipality) and 2) Pengchun Chang: A Crucial Architect of the International Human Rights System (selected into “National Achievements Library of Philosophy and Social Sciences”). He may be contacted at: fadaphsun@aliyun.com

Xia Tang is currently a Ph.D. candidate in international law at Xiamen University (China). Prior to doctoral study, she obtained LL.B. and LL.M. from Henan University. Xia's research interests include international commercial arbitration law and international investment law. She is particularly interested in third party funding in international arbitration.

She has participated in the project "legal issues of the mediation of commercial disputes by the chamber of commerce" (13BFX100) funded by the Chinese National Philosophy and Social Science Fund Project. Xia is the author of four chapters of books and text books. She has also published four academic articles in prestigious journals. She may be contacted at: tangxia1990vip@163.com

Weidong Zhu is a senior research fellow and professor in the Institute of West Asia and African Studies at the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS). He is also associated editor of the CAMBRIDGE JOURNAL OF CHINA STUDIES (UK) and member of the international advisory board of the JOURNAL OF LAW, SOCIETY AND DEVELOPMENT (South Africa).

Dr. Zhu is an attorney-at-law and arbitrator of various arbitral institutions in China and abroad. His Research covers African Law, private international law, international investment law and international commercial arbitration. He has published extensively in such international peer-review journals as JOURNAL OF AFRICAN LAW, TYDSKRIF VIR DIE SUID-AFRIKAANSE REG, PENANT, JOURNAL OF PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL LAW, YEARBOOK OF PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL LAW, ASIAN INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION JOURNAL, JOURNAL OF ASIAN BUSINESS LAWYER, JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION, etc. He may be contacted at: zhuwd@cass.org.cn

Deyi Ma is Professor of Law at the East China University of Political Science and Law (ECUPL) in China. Professor Ma holds LL.D. and LL.M. from Dalian Maritime University, China. Dr. Ma has more than ten year's research experience working on maritime and shipping laws. From 2010 to 2012, he worked as a postdoctoral researcher at the Chinese Academy of Social Science (CASS) in Beijing. Professor Ma was nominated as “Distinguished Young Jurist” by Liaoning Provincial Political and Legal Committee in 2014. He has published extensively research papers in Chinese leading journals and several books about maritime laws and the international law of the sea. He may be contacted at: madeyi9@aliyun.com

Jiahui Shi is a Ph.D. candidate at the Foreign and International Criminal Law Institute at the Cologne University, Germany. She completed her LL.B. at the International Law Faculty at China University of Political Science and Law (“CUPL”) in 2011 and later obtained her double-Master Degree on law in China-EU Law School in CUPL in 2014. Jiahui focuses on the comparative criminal and criminal procedure law, international criminal law, and German criminal and criminal procedure law. Her papers have been published in several books and journals. The current topic for her doctoral research is a comparative study on the secret investigative measures in the USA, Germany and P.R. China. She may be contacted at: shijiahui2006zxl@gmail.com

Bashar H. Malkawi is Dean and Professor of Law at University of Sharjah. He received his S.J.D. from American University’s Washington College of Law, and LL.M. in International Trade Law from University of Arizona. His academic career has traversed both business and law schools, teaching a variety of business law courses in Jordan, UAE, Italy, and the US. His research agenda focuses on the role of the WTO, FTAs, and economic integration. Professor Malkawi is the author of numerous books and monographs. In addition to law articles and academic books, his op-eds and other writings have appeared in the popular press in the US and the Middle East. Professor Malkawi regularly provides consulting service to international organizations, governments, and multinational law firms on business law. He may be contacted at: bmalkawi@sharjah.ac.ae

Kashif Imran Zadi was awarded LL.B. in 2009 and LL.M. in 2011 from Punjab University Law College, Lahore, Pakistan. He worked as an advocate Lahore High Court, Lahore, Pakistan. He served as Lecturer in Law in the University of the Punjab, Lahore, Pakistan from 2014 to 2017 and taught Procedural Laws and Law of Evidence. He joined Zhejiang University's Guanghua Law School, Hangzhou, China as a candidate of SJD in Chinese Law in 2017. His research interests include international trade and investment law. In recent, he focuses on the Dispute settlement System for CPEC and the legal issues associated with Belt and Road Initiative. He may be contacted at: kashifimran001@hotmail.com

Stuart Malawer holds a Ph.D. from the Dept. of International Relations at the University of Pennsylvania. He has a J.D. from the Cornell Law School and a Diploma from The Hague Academy of International Law (Research Centre). He also studied at the Harvard Law School and St. Peter's College at Oxford University. Professor Malawer was a member of the Virginia Governor's trade missions to China, India and Japan. Dr. Malawer was awarded the Hardy Cross Dillard Award by the Virginia State Bar, in recognition of serving as Chairman of its International Practice Section and Special Editor of the Virginia Lawyer. Most recently, he published articles on the US-China trade litigation, Trump's trade policies and cybersecurity. Professor Malawer served as the Director and Founder of the Graduate International Transactions Program at George Mason University (a master's program in international affairs). He was subsequently named the Distinguished Service Professor of Law & International Trade, as well as the Director of the Oxford Trade Program. This program was held annually in partnership with St. Peter's College at Oxford and Geneva. The GMU Alumni Association named Professor Malawer the Distinguished Faculty Member of the Year. He was a gubernatorial appointee to the Virginia Economic Development Partnership and recently to the Virginia International Trade Committee. He may be contacted at: StuartMalawer@msn.com

Zhiyuan Wen is a Ph.D. candidate in international law at the Law School of Xiamen University (China). She obtained LL.M. from Xiamen University and an LL.B. from China University of Political Science and Law. Her research interests include international investment law, private international law, and cyberspace international law. Zhiyuan's recent research focuses on the impacts of international investment agreements on domestic investors, the reform of international investment agreements, and the legal system of Belt and Road Initiative. She passed the National Judicial Exam and is qualified to practice the law in China. She may be contacted at: adawen1208@gmail.com

Xiaohan Zhang is currently a postdoctoral fellow at Zhejiang University, China. She received a Ph.D. in Law from the University of Hong Kong. Prior to her doctoral study, she obtained an LL.M. as well as an LL.B. from Zhejiang University. She carried out her internship with Harvard Berkman Klein Center in 2017. Xiaohan was also a visiting scholar at Harvard Law School under the support of the Fulbright Research Scholar Award. Dr. Zhang's research field is cyber law, e-commerce and dispute resolution while her Ph.D. thesis mainly focuses on securing e-commerce consumers' access to justice by employing innovative mechanisms for dispute resolution. She is also qualified to practice the law in China. She may be contacted at: hkuzhangxiaohan@qq.com

Ji Hee Suh is an In-House Attorney at Hanmi Pharmaceutical/Hanmi Science Co. Ltd. She is a member of the California and Wisconsin bar, mainly practicing Energy and Environmental law. Ji Hee studied at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Law School and earned her J.D. in 2016. She also majored in B.S. Geology at the University of British Columbia, and worked as a geological research analyst for three years before attending law school. As a Korean-born Canadian citizen working in the US, she maintains a broad scope of international and comparative law in research and practice. Her main interest lies in global warming and environmental change in China specifically, and in East Asia in general. In recent, Ji Hee is interested in the potential impact of China's new environmental stance and regulations on American investment trend in China. She may be contacted at: suh23@wisc.edu