

AUTHOR PROFILES

Michaela Staníčková is an associate professor at the Department of European Integration, Faculty of Economics, VŠB-Technical University of Ostrava (“VŠB-TUO”). Professor Staníčková was awarded doc. Ing. Ph.D. at VŠB-TUO. She has authored several chapters in scientific books, articles in academic journals, papers in proceedings of international conferences independently and collaborately. Her focus is on European integration with special references to the competitiveness of the EU Member States and NUTS 2 Regions; resilience of European territories to economic shocks and crisis – impact of economic policy and level of development of territories; implementation of projects co-financed by the EU funds. She was an investigator or team member of several research and pedagogical projects. Professor Staníčková is a member of Czech Economic Society and Czech Society for operational Research. She may be contacted at: michaela.stanickova@vsb.cz

Lenka Fojtíková is an associate professor at the Department of European Integration, Faculty of Economics, VŠB-TU Ostrava. She was awarded doc. Ing. Ph.D. at VŠB-TU Ostrava. Dr. Fojtíková is interested in the issues of international trade and the world trade policy. She has participated in different scientific and pedagogical projects focusing on the trade relations between selected world economies and the WTO related issues. She is the author of six monographs and several chapters of books, study texts, a scientific essay and several papers that were published in scientific journals or presented at international conferences abroad. She is a member of the Editorial Board of the Review of Economic Perspectives – a Czech scientific journal and the Creative and Knowledge Society of the International Scientific Journal that is issued in Slovakia. She may be contacted at: lenka.fojtikova@vsb.cz

Ran Guo is currently an Associate Professor at East China Normal University, Shanghai, China. He was a Visiting Fellow (2016-17) at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law and Wolfson College, University of Cambridge and a Fulbright Visiting Scholar (2007-08) at Hampden-Sydney College, US. He completed his B.A. (Henan Normal University), M.A. (Tianjin Foreign Studies University) and Ph.D. in International Law (Wuhan University). Professor Guo has extensively published academic articles on international law in Chinese and international journals, including Journal of East Asia and International Law, International Journal of Marine and Coastal Law, Journal of the History of International Law, Hong Kong Law Journal, and China and WTO Review. He has undertaken two minister-level research projects on the South China Sea sponsored by the Shanghai Planning Office of Philosophy and Social Science and the Chinese Law Society, respectively. He may be contacted at ranguo2008@aliyun.com.

Yongping Xiao is Cheung Kong Scholar Distinguished Professor, Director of International Law Institute at Wuhan University, Standing Vice-chairman of China's Society of Private International Law, Editor-in-Chief of WUDA International Law Review, and Member of Advisory Committee of Supreme People's Court of PRC. Dr. Xiao has published over 240 academic articles in journals and magazines delivered in PRC, USA, UK, Holland and other countries, and more than 30 academic monographs and textbooks on private international law, arbitration law, international civil litigation, and sports law. His research achievements has been recognized as the first class award by the Ministry of Education and the Ministry of Justice of China. Professor Xiao was honored with the "Top-ten Outstanding Young Jurists of China" by the Chinese Society of Law in 2010, and the "Outstanding Teacher of China" by Baogang Education Foundation in 2015. He may be contacted at: ypxiao@vip.sina.com

Jue Li is a Ph.D. candidate at the Faculty of Law of Wuhan University (WHU) of China. She holds dual LL.B. degrees from China and Germany and LL.M. on private international law from WHU. She was honored with the “excellent bachelor’s degree thesis of Hubei Province.” Her research interests include private international law, international family law, and comparative law. Jue was an exchange student in Philipps-Universität Marburg in Germany in 2014-15 and a visiting scholar in Max-Planck-Institut für Ausländisches und Internationales Privatrecht and Universität Hamburg in 2019-20. She may be contacted at: jessiejura@163.com

Pinguang Ying is currently an Associate Professor at Shanghai University of International Business and Economics (SUIBE), Vice Dean of School of Trade Negotiations & WTO Chair Institute-China, and Deputy Director of the Shanghai Centre for Global Trade and Economic Governance (SC-GTEG). He obtained his Ph.D. in law from East China University of Political Science and Law (ECUPL). Professor Ying also serves as Vice-Chairman of the Expert Committee of China Association for Trade in Services, Deputy Secretary-General of Competition Law Research Association of Shanghai Law Society, and is a member of Asia Competition Association. His research expertise includes competition policy & international trade and economic governance. He may be contacted at: yingpinguang@suibe.edu.cn

Clémence Lizé (李静雅) is a French scholar interested in the development of EU-Asian relations. She is particularly interested in Europe and China’s potential in building a multilateral system together, based on common grounds and in depth mutual understanding of each other’s differences. Clémence has an academic background in History and International Relations. She studied in Paris (Lycée Henri IV), Beijing (Peking University) and London (London School of Economics). She also has professional experience working in an international law firm and European institutions. Clémence is also deeply involved with think-tanks in Europe, so as to contribute to shaping the overall public and expert debate on Europe’s China policy

Ximei Wu is currently a Professor at the School of Law, Zhengzhou University, China. She holds her Ph.D. in law from Chongqing University. Her major areas of teaching and research cover international law, WTO law, and environmental law. Dr. Wu has published extensively in these areas and managed a lot of research projects sponsored by the Ministry of Education, the Ministry of Agriculture, and National Office of Philosophy and Social Sciences. She was a visiting Professor at the Public Policy School, Calgary University, Canada. She may be contacted at: zzueducnwxm@zzu.edu.cn

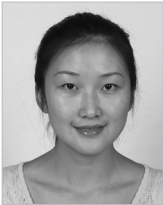

Sadiya S. Silvee is a Ph.D. candidate at School of Law, Zhengzhou University, China. She served as a Research Assistant (Law) at Bangladesh Institute of Law and International Affairs (BILIA) and Adjunct Faculty and Moot Court Advisor at Green University of Bangladesh. Sadiya worked in various research projects such as Judicial Attitudes towards the Death Penalty in Bangladesh and Judicial Policy on Case Management for the Subordinate Courts of Bangladesh. She presented her works at domestic and international conferences and delivered guest lectures on topics related to international law, human rights law, environmental law, and sentencing policy in criminal law. Sadiya is also a regular newspaper contributor addressing a variety of fields including international human rights law, international trade law, international economic law. She may be contacted at: sadiya.silvee@live.com

Lin Zhang is Professor of Law at Fujian Normal University School of Law and Adjunct Professor at Korea University School of Law. He studied law at Shandong University of Science and Technology (LL.B.) and then obtained his Ph.D. degree from the University of Hong Kong in 2010. Dr. Zhang has also been practicing law as a PRC qualified attorney since 2008. For the past five years, he has published two monographs in English regarding venture capital. Also, a number of his articles were published by globally recognized journals including Corporate Governance of Chinese State-controlled Listed Companies: a Revisit through the Lens of Venture Capital at 15 European Business Organization Law Review (2014) and The Potential Rise of Hostile Takeovers in China:

Efficiency, Politics and Law, at 12 China: An International Journal (2014). His research interests are primarily on business law, Chinese law, and international economic law. He can be contacted at: linzhang@korea.ac.kr

Jingjing An is an assistant professor of Shandong University of Technology, China. Professor An was awarded LL.B. and LL.M. at Shandong University of Science and Technology and Ph.D. in Law at Korea University specializing in international law. She is a member of the Asian Academy of International Law. In the past four years Dr. An has published six articles respectively in the law journals of Korea, Britain, China and Macau.

Stuart Malawer holds a Ph.D. from the Dept. of International Relations at the University of Pennsylvania. He has a J.D. from the Cornell Law School and a Diploma from The Hague Academy of International Law (Research Centre). He also studied at the Harvard Law School and St. Peter's College at Oxford University. Professor Malawer was a member of the Virginia

Governor's trade missions to China, India, and Japan. Dr. Malawer was awarded the Hardy Cross Dillard Award by the Virginia State Bar, in recognition of serving as Chairman of its International Practice Section and Special Editor of the Virginia Lawyer. Most recently, he published articles on the US-China trade litigation, Trump's trade policies, and cybersecurity. Recent books have included Global Trade and International Law (2012), U.S. National Security Law (2009), and WTO Law, Litigation and Policy (2007). Professor Malawer served as the Director and Founder of the Graduate International Transactions Program at George Mason University (a master's program in international affairs). He was subsequently named the Distinguished Service Professor of Law & International Trade, as well as the Director of the Oxford Trade Program. This program was held annually in partnership with St. Peter's College at Oxford and Geneva. The GMU Alumni Association named Professor Malawer the Distinguished Faculty Member of the Year. He was a gubernatorial appointee to the Virginia Economic Development Partnership and recently to the Virginia International Trade Committee. He may be contacted at: StuartMalawer@msn.com